Offer

XR - Virtual Reality solutions (AR / VR / MR) for industrial maintenance and factory operations

Industrial Augmented Reality for maintenance and training allows you to present large sets of data at the right time in any location. This technology assists in the whole product life-cycle from design and prototyping to quality control and inspection. Display complicated instructions in an understandable and easily accessible way and improve operational process. Augmented reality (AR) expands reality by layering information over the objects in the real environment using depth sensing, computer vision, and object recognition. A disruptive potential of this technology allows manufacturing and related Industries to become more agile, efficient and customer-centric. AR technology solutions allow two-way communication between field service technicians and remote experts. Displaying complicated instructions in an understandable and easily accessible way will improve customer service process.
