Description

The company RAVNE PRESSES d.o.o. is presented in the market as a manufacturer of lines, mechanical, servo and hydraulic presses (including presses for sintered parts) for car and electric industry as well as for household appliances. Besides the presses manufacturing the company also reconstructs and reproduces old presses and lines, integrates the selling devices with the presses and performs other engineering services for the customers. All the machines manufactured in the company Ravne Presses d.o.o. are a result of close cooperation with the customers - from the very beginning to the end of the project: they are a result of the customer's demands, knowledge of experts cooperating in the project and of realistic possibilities of the implementation. One of the basic activities which coincide with manufacturing of machines and appliances is servicing and supplying the customers with spare parts for the presses of its own production as well for the presses of other renowned manufacturers. During long years of working the company has established partner relationships with the companies all over the world. We are sure that our cooperation with the well known companies and corporations could be a kind of advantage and proof, our company is worth of your trust and you can always rely on our products, after sale support and us, as employees of Ravne Presses d.o.o.
